

Affordable Quality: Bargate Murray

Don't let the credit crunch adversely impact upon the quality of your legal advice

Bargate Murray is no ordinary law firm. A few points of interest:

- The founding partners of Bargate Murray, Quentin Bargate and Andrew Murray, between them have in excess of 50 years post qualification experience.
- Quentin Bargate was a partner in top City law firm Simmons & Simmons for 14 years, ran its International trade and Shipping Group, was a member of its Insurance, Arbitration, IT law and Litigation groups, sits as an arbitrator and has handled many very high value transactions and cases.
- Andrew Murray headed the ship finance practice at Constant and Constant and has extensive experience working in-house for major institutions as well as being a partner in private practice working on complex corporate and banking matters.
- All this experience is backed up by high quality assistance from their hand-chosen colleagues and is available at a price that may well be only a fraction of the cost of buying similar expertise from the kind of large firms in which the founding partners were formerly partners.
- We are not just another bunch of "suits". Quentin Bargate is published writer on stock photography. The firm is both multicultural and individual, located in fashionable Shoreditch EC2, just a few minutes walk from Liverpool Street station and close also to Old Street underground.

When sourcing legal services, high quality and an affordable price both matter. You can have both with Bargate Murray. We'll throw in the feel good factor for free!
